

Justin Clem Designer

Education

West Virginia University School of Art and Design August 2014 – May 2018
BFA in Graphic Design

As an undergraduate at West Virginia University School of Art and Design, my studies included print design, web design, motion graphics, and social design. My emphasis resides in web design, motion graphics, and UX design. As a student of Professor Kofi Opoku, I was taught to maintain rigorous attention to 508 accessibility standards for web and screen.

Experience

West Virginia University Alumni Association May 2018 – Present
Graphic Designer (Professional Technician)

As the graphic designer my responsibilities include, but are not limited to, content development, selection of photography, designing print and digital communications materials, maintaining the association's online presence, and providing design insight for the association.

West Virginia University Alumni Association May 2017 – May 2018
Graphic Design Intern

As an intern at the West Virginia University Alumni Association, I designed print and digital materials, maintained the association's website, provided support on communication design, and cooperated in company events and programs. Through this internship I gained extensive knowledge in CleanSlate CMS, Blackbaud, and Litmus.

Freelance February 2017 – Present
Business Owner of Clem Designs

I am the business owner and sole proprietor of Clem Designs. I have worked with various clients in and outside the Morgantown area.

PostNet October 2016 – March 2017
Assistant Graphic Designer

As the assistant graphic designer at Postnet, I was responsible for the overflow work of the lead designer. I worked in both print and digital.
